

MARCONI INSISTS THAT HE DID NOT WITHHOLD DETAILS OF DISASTER

WIRELESS INVENTOR DECLARES ON STAND TODAY THAT HE MADE NO ATTEMPT TO SUPPRESS NEWS.

CONSENTED TO SALE

Of Stories for Publication by Wireless Operators, But Denied Knowledge of Secret Messages.

Washington, D. C., April 25.—Guglielmo Marconi of the Marconi company today told the senate investigating committee that he had not intended in any way to suppress general information of the wreck. The inventor of the wireless denied any knowledge whatever of a wireless message sent to the Carpathia operator telling him, "Keep your mouth shut" and "Hold out for four figures."

Mr. Marconi explained that in giving consent to the sale of these stories he had not intended in any way to suppress general information of the wreck. The inventor of the wireless denied any knowledge whatever of a wireless message sent to the Carpathia operator telling him, "Keep your mouth shut" and "Hold out for four figures."

ROOSEVELT'S LETTER SENT UP TO SENATE

Incriminating Communication Order, Examining of Harvester Trust Discontinued, in Senate.

Baltimore, April 25.—President Roosevelt's letter to Attorney General Harvester directing the latter to withhold the anti-trust suit against the International Harvester company, contained in correspondence sent to the senate yesterday by the department of justice, Mr. Harvester said the action was withheld pending an investigation of the International Harvester company by the bureau of corporations, which was being made at the instance of the senate.

Washington, D. C., April 25.—Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, today would not discuss the correspondence made public yesterday by the senate in which he wrote Roosevelt in 1907 concerning the prosecution of the International Harvester company. "The letter speaks for itself," said Mr. Smith. "I have nothing to say."

The resolution of Representative Norris of Nebraska, calling for the intervention of justice for all papers and information concerning the charges against Judge Archibald of the U. S. Commerce court passed the house this afternoon without debate.

WILL FRAME PROGRAM TO SUBMIT TO HAGUE

American Society of International Law Meeting Will be Entirely Devoted to Purpose.

Washington, D. C., April 25.—The American Society of International Law, which was formed in 1906 for the purpose of "fostering the study of international law and promoting the establishment of international relations on the basis of law and justice," assembled in this city today for its sixth annual meeting. Opening tonight with an address by Senator Root, the sessions will continue tomorrow and Saturday.

The society has decided to devote its entire meeting this year to the consideration of the program, organization and procedure of the third Hague Conference in 1915. The speakers and their subjects will include the following: Gen. George B. Davis, formerly judge advocate general of the United States Army, on "The Effects of War Upon International Conventions and Upon Private Contracts"; Thomas William Bate, of Philadelphia, on "The Marine Belt and the Question of Territorial Waters"; Rear Admiral Charles H. Stockton, president of the American Society of International Law, on "The Codification of the Naval Warfare"; Pasquale Fiore, senator of Italy and professor of international law in the University of Naples, on "Some Considerations on the Past, Present and Future of International Law"; Henry White, formerly American ambassador to France, on "The Organization and Procedure of the Third Hague Conference"; and James L. Tryon, secretary of the Massachusetts Peace Society, on "The Permanent Court of International Justice."

APPEAL OF RICHESON IS UP TO GOVERNOR

Hearing of Commutation of Sentence Will be Held Tomorrow—Governor Foss to Decide.

Boston, Mass., April 25.—The hearing on the appeal for commutation of the sentence of Clarence V. T. Richeson, confessed slayer of Asa Linnell, who is sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week of May 19, will come up before Governor Foss tomorrow morning. William A. Morse of this city and John L. Lee of Lynchburg, Va., counsel for the former, will ask for the commutation of their client's sentence and the governor will then decide whether it shall be presented to the Executive Council. It is understood that one point that will be urged in favor of commutation is the fact that Richeson's confession saved the state the expense of the trial. This expense, it is estimated, would have amounted to fully $45,000.

AMBASSADOR BRICE AND WIFE GO TO NEW ZEALAND

DEDICATE CAMPANILE ST. MARK'S CHURCH

Tens of Thousands Attend Ceremonies—Vatican Represented by Large Delegation.

Venice, April 25.—Tens of thousands of people witnessed the solemn blessing today of the reconstructed Campanile of St. Mark's. Not only the provinces of Italy and from neighboring countries joined in making the event one of international importance. Interest was added to the occasion by the presence of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Italia. Senators and deputies of the Italian parliament were present in numbers, while the Vatican was represented by a distinguished delegation headed by several members of the college of cardinals.

The Campanile which was dedicated today is a perfect reproduction in every detail of the old one destroyed on July 14, 1902. The old tower was one of the famous structures of the world. For centuries it stood as a visible reminder of the time when the Venetians dominated the arts and commerce of the world. It began as a water tower before the Christians age was in its teens, and developed into a bell tower, with bells ringing forth at the first hint of danger, and later was considered a part of St. Mark's cathedral. Today the tower stands just as before. Its restoration has occupied almost ten years and is considered by architects and engineers as a most remarkable achievement. The bronze statues and the famous gates are again in place, the whole again has been restored, and the great bronze angel, 16 feet high, taken down again from the plane. As a fitting prelude to the dedication ceremonies, the chimes of the tower sounded as they gathered in the square of St. Mark's and heard the old familiar sounds for the first time in almost a decade. Of the five bells in the restored Campanile four are new and were presented to St. Mark's by Pope Pius X.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS by DAN McCARTY

Jimmy Callahan, of Chicago, is one of the "comebacks" in baseball. He joined the White Sox in 1901. He was made manager in 1903. At the end of the season he was succeeded by Fielder, Jones. Then Cal fired with the semi-pros in Chicago. He stayed with the team until 1910, when the Chicago baseball league disbanded.

Then it was that Cal came back. He asked "O. R." Campbell for another chance. Campbell sent him south early in 1911, and Callahan soon rounded into form.

He played a sensational game, right from the start, both in the outfield and at the bat. Then, because of his own judgment, and knowledge of his handling players as well as for his business ability, Cal was made manager of the team when Hugh Duffy retired.

Cal has sure come back—no doubt about that.

Matty McIntyre, the Staten Island athlete, is another "return." Matty hit .295 with Detroit in 1909, .244 in 1910, and .236 in 1911. Then Hugh Jennings cast him off, branching out with the White Sox. In 1911, Matty hit .323, the best average he had ever made.

Frank Kitt and Jack Dillon, mid-dleweight title champions, will box ten rounds at the Garden Athletic Club, New York, on May 2.

Jim Flynn, conquerer of Al Kaufman and Carl Morris, "white hopes," originally rated as his superior, has reached Hot Springs with Jack Curley his manager, and is conditioning himself for his big battle with Jack Johnson in Las Vegas, N. M., on July 4.

Jim Corbett, who tried to train Jeffries in the ex-champion's manorable fight with Johnson at Reno is also one of Flynn's handlers. Twenty years ago Corbett surprised the world by defeating the then invincible John L. Sullivan.

"Flynn, I was a bigger longshot than you in New Orleans than you will be at Las Vegas," said Corbett to Flynn the other day. "You remind me of my old self. Say, Jim, the whole world, every sporting writer and every sporting man, even my own father and my brothers said I was a fool to fight John L."

"Yes, Corbett, and this is a bad year for champions," chirped back Flynn. Papko and Atell have just lost their crowns, and there is always room for one more."

Corbett has decided to witness the battle—something he had said he wouldn't do all along. Flynn is saying little. He and Curley are keeping mum and "sawing wood."

Ohio State League Opens.
Newark, O., April 25.—Opening games in the Ohio State League began today. Marion started at Lima, Portsmouth at Chillicothe and Mansfield in Newark. Since the close of last season the make-up of the organization has been radically changed. Four of last year's clubs, Lancaster, Springfield, Piqua and Hamilton, are out of the league, while Newark and Mansfield are newcomers.

GOOD BOXING MATCH HAS BEEN ARRANGED

Matchmaker Hackett Announces Card of Unusual Merit For Local Fans on Evening of May 6th.

Full arrangements have now been made by Matchmaker Robert Hackett of the Janesville Athletic Club for one of the best boxing matches of the season to be given at the west side rink on the evening of Monday, May 6th.

The main bout of the evening will be between Billy Morehead of Milwaukee and Harry Slinger of Chicago. This will be a ten-round go at 142 pounds and promises an exhibition of some of the best boxing talent which has been seen in Janesville in some time.

Phil Harrison, the fast Chicago lad who completely outboxed Jack Teagarden of Milwaukee, in the last match held here, has been secured for an eight-round mill with Chas. Searing of Milwaukee. Searing has a good record and will give Harrison a stiff contest but those who have seen the Chicago boy in action know that he will be a hard one to beat.

Floyd (Kid) De Munn, the Belvidere favorite, will be better matched on the card May 6th than when he went down so easily before Billy Morehead's skillful boxing at the last match. Jack Craft of Madison, a coming star, will be his opponent in an eight-round go at 145 pounds.

For the first preliminary Kid Sharkey of Janesville, will mix it with Ted Young of Milwaukee, in a six round mill at 124 pounds. Not the least of the interest will be centered in this event and both lads will have active supporters. Large delegations are expected from Milwaukee, Madison, Beloit, and Belvidere to witness the bouts. Jack Dougherty of Madison, has been secured as referee.

Manager Dahlen of the Brooklyn team and Umpire Rigler have had to pay for the little incident they engaged in at the New York Polo grounds the other day. President of the National League fined Dahlen $100 and suspended him until May 4. Rigler got off with a $100 fine.

LAW AND ORDER.

Apparently there is no doubt in the minds of any that the commissioners means business and when they instruct their Chief of Police to issue certain orders they expect them to be obeyed. Citizens who voted for the change of form of government wanted not only a change in method of handling city business, but also in the method that certain lines of business were conducted. The council have heeded this call and the first orders issued by the Chief of Police mean business, with no favorites shown. It is the first step in regulation of civic affairs. In the right direction and backed by the laws of the state it will be hard to fight now that the city can boast of a city attorney who has no fear of political interference and is himself fearless and able to handle matters that will come in his jurisdiction.

THE OPPORTUNITY.

The opportunity of the republican party in Wisconsin to rehabilitate themselves with the taxpayers and voters at large by repealing the income tax law and other obnoxious measures will come at the special session which convenes next week despite the fact the governor says that it can not be taken up at that time. If they do not take advantage of it the scheming politicians and followers of socialism who forced these measures through the last legislature will be the only ones to blame for a democratic victory at the polls next fall.

THE SPRING CLEANING.

The work of the civic societies in bringing about a regular spring cleaning of lawns and yards is a matter of importance to the future sanitary condition of the city. It is a move in the right direction and one which should appeal to every owner or renter of property in the city. It will mean much to the city as a whole and will incite the individuals to further endeavor to make Janesville the "City Beautiful." It calls forth the best interests of civic pride and will doubtless be most successful.

OUT IN IOWA.

It appears as though President Taft has a few friends even in Iowa where Senator Cummins, the dark horse of the progressives, was supposed to be so strong no one could touch his delegation. Four delegates at large with special instructions for Taft, ten more in the state at large, no small gain for one day at least. Where was Teddy? In Massachusetts, many miles away.

ADDED DETAILS.

Added details to the awful Titanic disaster which are being learned through the medium of the semantorial investigation, show that even in the time of need some of the officials of the great steamship were derelict in their duty. While it is not probable that any prosecutions will follow, still the moral effect may in the future save thousands of other lives from a similar disaster.

Next to the information that the Dutch have taken Holland, the announcement that Underwood has captured the Alabama delegation is the most stirring news that has come across in a long time.

According to official figures, a baby is born in New York every three minutes. As a sucker is said to be born every minute, it is apparent that New York is not living up to its possibilities.

It is said that General Orozco, the Mexican rebel leader, never smiles. Perhaps he is saving them up for the time when he hopes to have the pleasure of tying the can on Madero.

One good thing about this presidential campaign excitement is that it has taken the mind of the country off the sorrow of being compelled soon to do without the official services of Senator Bailey.

England's drink bill in 1911 was $10,000,000, the heaviest on record. No wonder John Bull thought he saw a German invasion.

Pittsburgh has two hundred divorce cases on its court docket. Didn't know there were that many Pittsburgh millionaires.

A man who was once a railroad president is now a beggar in New York. Couldn't he get a job as a palace car porter?

New York is to have a new 4,000,000 candle-power harbor light. Still the lights on Broadway will attract more moths.

The tailor who has discovered that automobile enlarges the chest evidently forgot to measure the head.

Perhaps the Mexicans will get together if Uncle Sam applies his cow-hide boot to both factions.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

FORGET THE CLOCK.

"The clock is the young man's worst enemy."

So says the youngest railroad president in the world, President O. L. Dikson of the White Pass and Yukon. It is an interesting story. He lived at Ottumwa, Ia., and at the age of sixteen had saved a little money doing odd jobs after school. "But," said he, "the call of the big city was in me."

Knowing that some preparation for business was necessary, he took a commercial course and learned stenography. Then he wrote out a want ad. and sent it to a Chicago paper.

A few days later in answer to his advertisement he was offered a place by the Burlington railroad in its Chicago offices. That was the turning point in his career.

Young Dikson did his work so well that when there was a vacancy in the office of the car tracking bureau he was given the place on trial.

How he traced these cars!

The clock did not stop him. He did not let it become his enemy. He traced the cars day and night. It was not a matter of hours with him, but a matter of tracing cars until he found them. And he did not stop until he found them.

The higher officials began to look over their spectacles at the young fellow who did things.

His faithfulness over a few things put the suggestion into the minds of the men higher up that possibly here was a young man who could be a ruler over many things.

Then came rapid promotions. First he was made assistant superintendent of transportation, then two years after inspector of transportation of the entire line. Still another change made him assistant to the president of the road.

At the age of thirty-three shrewd capitalists put him at the head of the western lines.

"I guess it's a hobby with me," said this successful young American who climbed from the bottom to the top in sixteen years. "One thing I've found—the clock is the young man's worst enemy."

Also he says: "No more than worthy of the job you hold. You'll then be worthy of the place higher up."

There's wisdom in these axioms. The young man who always watches the clock and is ready to quit when it begins striking is merely putting in time, not service. He is a time server. And time servers seldom are given the chance to climb.

Forget the clock. Be worthy of the small job and you will then be worthy of the larger place.

Caught on the Fly.
An Iowa woman has laughed herself into hysterics over a newspaper story. It must have been something about Uncle Jim Wilson's probable resignation from the cabinet.

An English editor has just died, leaving $100,000. It is evidently not the custom in England to send in cardwads and pumpkins for subscription.

A Yonkstown (O.) couple eloped on the bumpers of a freight train, which is another instance in which the course of true love did not run smooth.

Hon. Joe Bailey of Texas, has endorsed Taft. It doesn't seem as though the President has done anything bad enough to deserve that.

"Little Joe" Brown is again governor of Georgia. He ought to be able to work this up into a valuable stunt after awhile.

PRESS COMMENT.

Insurgency.
Stoughton Carrier-Hubb—Insurgency has its proper place in the life of our nation. It is a protesting force, a sort of a danger signal which serves to direct attention to things needing correction. There is always a class in every government who delight in perverting facts. In order to put their country in the wrong so that they may have some excuse for opposing it and who are always uttering warnings of danger, croaking Jeremiah, warning in pathetic sorrow over the degeneracy of the times in the presence of some one greater than they.

The people may rest assured of the fact that the goddess of wisdom, patriotism and statesmanship did not withhold her gifts until the advent of a Roosevelt, and then shower all of them on him as if she were tired of carrying the load and only wanted to carry the opportunity to dump it on some worthy, receptive subject. Viewed as a commendable feature, but viewed as a contrivance to gratify the ambition of designing men, it is most reprehensible. "Beware of false prophets which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves."

We wait the announcement that China has adopted the state-wide primary.

The Answer is the Dead.
Madison State Journal—The Senate of the United States has appointed an investigating committee which is now busy getting at the causes that piloted the Titanic into the iceberg and into the worst sea disaster known in history. Well may they ask and many questions they will ask and many people they will quiz. They may recommend an international law that will abandon the dangerous northern route. But one thing is certain and that is the American registry that sanken ship would have had to carry not less than 48 life boats. Under the British registry they were allowed to go to sea with but 20. And these 20 were divided into three classes, 14 (real) life boats, 2 smaller boats and 2 collapsible. Let's call it a real 20, if that wasn't it. If 20 boats will save 745 lives how many lives will 48 life boats save. The answer is the dead. Is it any wonder that the newspapers of New York are boldly advising all travelers to avoid the White Star Line? Any steamship line that will follow the maximum risk program ought to be put out of business. Let the Senate go to it.

A Muffler Please.
Fond du Lac Commonwealth—Fond du Lac continues to be one of the best advertised cities in the United States. It's latest idea to break into the moving picture show, Governor Wilson's visit to this town Woodrow Wilson's visit to this town.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from a reputable physician, as the damage they will do is too fatal to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by E. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by E. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio. Price 50c per bottle. Sold by Druggists. Price 50c per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

COOL-HEADED CASHIER ROUTS TWO CUNGLARS
Hides Behind Desk and Shouts When Masked Men Level Pistols at His Head—Robbers Flee.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, April 25.—Two masked men armed with revolvers invaded the office of the Colonial Life Insurance company on Broadway in Brooklyn today, leveled their pistols in the face of John J. Jamison, the cashier, and demanded all the money in his charge.

He surrendered, seven thousand dollars of which lay on his desk beside him. Jamison ducked behind the desk and shouted. The highwayman fled, but one of them said he was Fred Glimmer of Brooklyn when he was captured, after a chase of a mile.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Circle No. 8 will meet with Mrs. Turnbull, 561 Washington street, Friday at 2:30 o'clock. A full attendance is desired. MRS. ROHN, Pres.

Judgment Paid: In the civil case of A. Y. McDonald et al. versus Joe Entwistle, of Milton, Wisconsin, against whom a judgment was entered in Justice Talman's court, the judgment was paid in full for $14.33 by Mr. Entwistle as soon as he learned of the claim against him.

Civil Cases: The civil suit of C. F. Knorr against J. H. Weston, called in Justice S. D. Talman's court yesterday, was adjourned one week. Judgment in the sum of $18.91 was entered yesterday in the case of P. J. Bull versus Thomas Lawless, an action involving a promissory note.

JANESVILLE MAY BE MADE DISPATCHING
CENTER FOR ROAD

C. M. & St. P. Officials May Establish Dispatcher's Office Here and Build Addition to Local Station.

That Janesville may be made a dispatching point for the three divisions of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, running into this city, and that an addition may be made to the present station for a dispatcher's office, are possibilities suggested in a report current today. Janesville is the junction point of the Chicago and Milwaukee, Racine and Southwestern, and Mineral Point divisions of the road, and practically is the division terminal of the Mineral Point division. Should the proposition of the company officials be carried out, it would mean that dispatching headquarters would be established here for trains on the Chicago and Milwaukee divisions as far as Roundout; on the Racine and Southwestern division between the city and Davis Junction; and over the entire length of the Mineral Point division, between Mineral Point and Milton Junction.

P. C. Eldredge, general superintendent of the road, and L. R. Clusen, superintendent of the Chicago and Milwaukee division, of Chicago, were in the city last week, and it is understood that the purpose of their visit was to investigate the matter with regard to the advisability of establishing a dispatcher's office here. According to the report the new building would be erected on the triangular plot of ground, now given over to a flower garden, just east of the depot. Besides the dispatcher's office there would be offices for the road masters, yardmaster and engineer. This would mean the removal of the telegraph offices from their present location in the ticket office.

IMPORTANT MEETING TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Local Aerie of Eagles Will Make Definite Plans for the Coming State Convention in June.

All members of the local Aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles are urged to be present at the meeting which will be held tonight at which time important matters relative to the coming state convention of the order are to be decided upon. Aside from this there is to be initiation of candidates and other important business transacted.

Interest throughout the state in the coming gathering at Janesville is really more at a fever heat than right here in Janesville. This city was selected at the last state convention as the 1912 convention city and the various aeries in the state are each planning to send a big delegation here for the three days.

The Milwaukee Aerie, the largest in the state, have already made arrangements for a special round trip railroad rate, special accommodations for its visiting members and will bring a band, its drill team and a marching club of some five hundred members. It might be said that at the head of this organization of boosters will be found Judge Karel, of the Milwaukee probate court and erstwhile football hero of the University of Wisconsin when that institution had a football team.

It will be interesting to note also that Judge Karel is one of the big democratic leaders that is now being seriously talked of as a gubernatorial possibility and his friends in Milwaukee who are behind his candidacy claim he will carry Milwaukee county by a three to one vote. He is most enthusiastic over the Janesville convention and is president of the Janesville Booster Club which is holding a series of entertainments to raise funds to send a big delegation.

Racine, Kenosha, Madison and other nearby cities, while planning to have big marching clubs here for the parade which promises to be one of the features of the week's doings, Janesville has a club of some five hundred as well as a drill team and will have the services of two or three bands for the event. It is possible the Scouts' Drum Corps will also be utilized during the week.

The meeting tonight is most important as the details of the entertainment for the visitors, which include races at the fair grounds, monoplane and aeroplane flights, foot racing and a regular field day, are to be discussed. All members of the various committees are asked to be present to make report on progress of the preliminary work thus far accomplished.

TRAINING SCHOOL STUDENTS
SPENT ENJOYABLE EVENING.

Program Was Given at School Room
Following Banquet to Seniors at Flynn's Restaurant.

Following a banquet given by the Juniors of the Rock county training school to the graduating class at Flynn's restaurant last evening, a short program was enjoyed at the training school rooms in the Jefferson building. Principal and Mrs. Lowth, Sup't. Antel and Miss Hemmings were called upon for remarks several of the Juniors gave articles in the nature of "toasts" to the Seniors. Mrs. Georgia Hyde played several piano selections, and Miss Ada Buckmaster gave a reading. The affair proved very delightful and will long be remembered by the members of the Senior class.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Contested Divorce: The case of Fannie J. Wheeler vs. Morris S. Wheeler, a contested divorce action, will be heard before Judge Gilman in the circuit court tomorrow afternoon. Several other matters will come before the court at that time.

MONEY DONATED TO FAMILY BY LODGE

Equitable Fraternal Union Gave $10 to Lawrence Family and Took Action With Regard to Payment of Claim.

Action with regard to the payment of the insurance held by Edward Lawrence in the Equitable Fraternal Union was taken and the sum of ten dollars was donated to the bereaved family, by the local branch of the order at its meeting last evening in the Caledonia rooms. The claim of the relatives for insurance money will be paid as soon as the body is found, and in case the corpse is not recovered soon the local lodge will correspond with the head lodge at Neenah, Wis., to see what can be done. Prominent business men of this city have signified their willingness to give a bond, if the money for the widow and family can be secured in that manner. There was a large attendance at the meeting.

After the business of the meeting had been disposed of, a social was held, and a very delightful time was spent with games and music. Light refreshments were served.

The local branch of the E. F. U. was instituted in this city in 1911. Since that time only three deaths have occurred. One of these, James W. Scott, Mr. Van Kouron, and Mr. Lawrence, which occurred within the past two months. The claim for the insurance held by Mr. Scott, for $755, was paid in seventeen days, and that of Mr. Van Kouron for $788.89 in twenty-one days.

DELAY STARTING WORK ON NORTH MAIN STREET

Preparation of Sub-Grade Will Not be Begun Until Monday—Sewer Connections to be Made.

The preparation of the sub-grade for the brick pavement on North Main street will not be started until next Monday. Foreman George Croft of the Gund-Graham company hoped to begin work today but because the street is at present cut up with trenches dug for the making of sewer connections he was obliged to postpone operations. A cement curb and gutter is being laid on the east side of the street between First and Second streets, and similar work will also be done on both sides of the street from Second street to Fourth avenue. Concrete will be laid between the curbs and for six inches in depth under the steam railway tracks.

Needless Alarm: The fire department was called to extinguish a fire in a ravine on Washington street at 6:30 last evening. The alarm is said to have been sent in by some of the women in the neighborhood who were frightened. Chief Klein found no cause for alarm and no water was thrown on it.

Hand Lacerated and Bone Broken in the Machinery

John Day, Machinist at Rock River Machine Co.'s Plant, Severely Injured This Morning.

John S. Day, 263 South Third street, a machinist at the Rock River Machine company, had the skin and flesh of his right hand badly lacerated and one of the small bones of the hand fractured when his hand was caught in a piece of machinery at the plant of the company. The accident occurred about half past ten o'clock this morning. Mr. Day was removed to his home and Dr. Charles Sutherland dressed the wound and reduced the fracture. Besides the painfulness and severity of the injury, it will keep Mr. Day from working for several weeks until the fractured bone has knit together.

A Permanent Benefit.

J. L. Souther, Clerk Eau Claire House, Eau Claire, Wis., relates his statement that Foley Kidney Pills cured him. He says: "Several years ago I wrote you of my remarkable cure by the use of Foley Kidney Pills. One of the worst features of my trouble was sleeplessness. Now to show the lasting benefit of Foley Kidney Pills, after all this time I have had no return of the kidney trouble and I sleep soundly. I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to lots of people who report the great good they do them." Badger Drug Co.

Large Supply of Eggs on Markets.

Hen Fruit Coming in in Large Quantities at Reduced Prices.—Baldwins up One Cent.

The large supply of eggs on the local markets and the rapidly with which they are brought in by the farmers around town has caused a decided slump in the price although the retail figure remains the same. Quick meals during house cleaning and eggs furnish a medium by which this may be accomplished. So it is with considerable joy that she watches the eggs coming in such large quantities and causing the price to waver so that it may fall within a short time. Baldwin apples have gone up to six cents a pound in the fruit market and another raise may be expected any time as the season advances. The Ben Davis, Black Twig and Winsap apples furnish a supply of fine fruit for eating purposes while Baldwin's are not yet too high for the economical cook to make pies of.

This year's imported strawberry crop will probably be very short as storms and cold weather in Louisiana have cut down the output to a large degree. Local dealers however expect to have enough for their trade until home grown ones begin to come in.

Little change is noticed on the markets today which read as follows:

Sympathy for Woman Slayer.

Cleveland, O., April 25.—Much public interest and sympathy is manifested in the case of Mrs. Rose Devorick of Lawrence, Mass., who was arraigned in court today for trial on a charge of second degree murder, for killing Jacob Horovitz in a Cleveland street, on Nov. 27, 1911. Mrs. Devorick shot Horovitz, trailing him here from her Massachusetts home. She charged that Horovitz had known her as a girl, and that on stories growing from the friendship her husband had divorced her according to the Jewish rite. Since the tragedy the woman has given birth to a baby boy, now about two months old.

Not having a Bible handy, he depended on his memory and wrote as follows: "My Dear Wife: Proverbs 25: 24.—John. He did not get any more letters. When his wife returned he asked her why she had not written. She showed him his quotation. He looked at his Bible and said: "Oh, Lord! I quoted the wrong verse; it should have been Proverbs 25: 25."

You call me 'Mister' or 'Say' or 'Bill,' or anything else you like, until the time comes when it will be natural for you to address me as 'Grandpa.'"—Life.

ASTOR'S FIRST WIFE

TO GO TO NEW YORK

Divorced Wife of Victim of Titanic Disaster Will Join Son in Metropolis.

New York, April 25.—New York is interested in the report that Ava Willing Astor, first wife of John Jacob Astor, which he will share with his step-mother and perhaps with his sister Muriel, has been estimated at $10,000,000. His father's real property holdings in this city alone were estimated authoritatively last autumn to be $11,000,000.

Vincent was born November 15, 1891, in the old William Astor mansion. He was a delicate child and until he entered Harvard last autumn he spent six months of each year at his father's country house at Ferncliff.

Plowing Demonstration of Great Interest

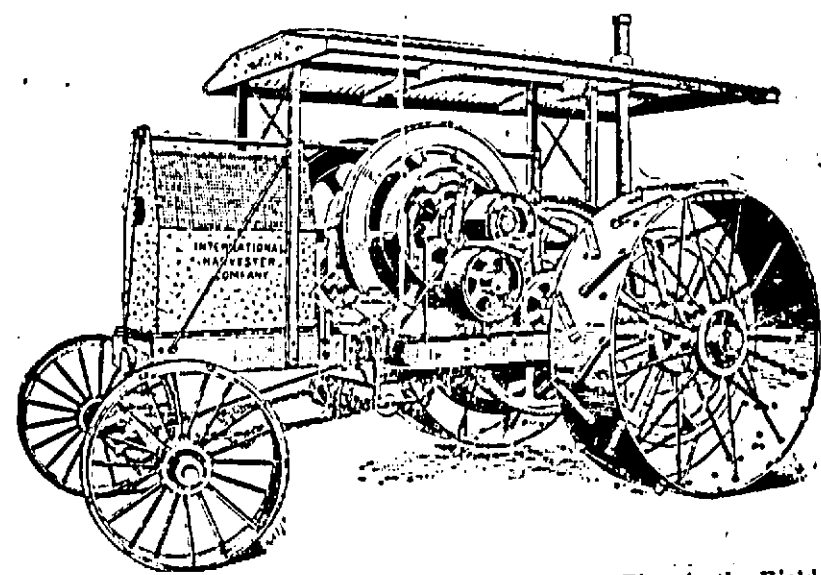

An I. H. C. 25 h. p. Mogul Gasoline Tractor Will Be Shown in a Plowing Demonstration on the

Willard Austin Farm, April 30 and May 1

The Farm is Known as the Prairie View Stock Farm and is Situated Four Miles Northeast of Janesville, Near Harmony Town Hall. A Cordial Invitation is Extended to All Interested.

An I. H. C. Tractor Made the Following Record at the Winnipeg Motor Contest:

- FIRST, An I. H. C. gasoline engine plowed the cheapest acre plowed with gasoline, 31½ cents.
An I. H. C. engine plowed the second cheapest acre plowed with gasoline, 35 6-10 cents.
An I. H. C. engine burning kerosene, reduced the cost of plowing an acre to 29 3-10 cents.
- SECOND, An I. H. C. engine plowed the greatest number of acres per hour, 2.74 acres. This is a record.
- THIRD, An I. H. C. gasoline engine used less gasoline per acre than any other engine in the contest, 11.01 lbs.
- FOURTH, An I. H. C. engine drew a larger number of plows than any other engine. Every I. H. C. engine above the 25 H. P. class, whether burning gasoline or kerosene, picked up 10 fourteen-inch plows and pulled this number throughout the test.

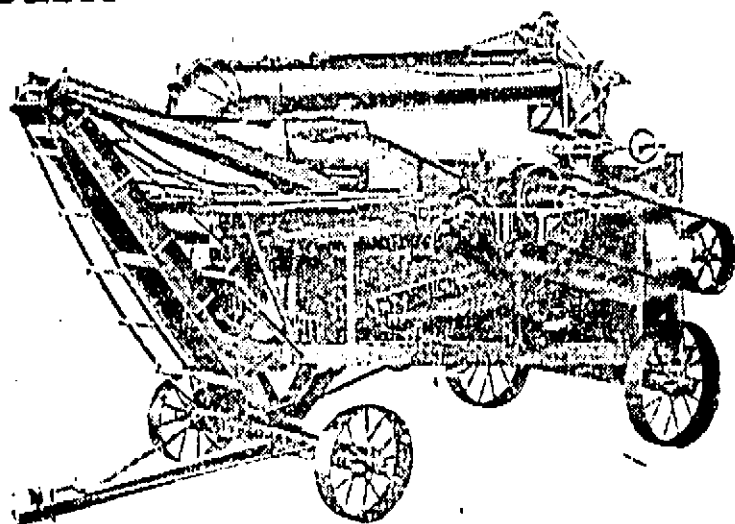

I. H. C. Tractor, a Furrow Fighter that Never Leaves a Plow in the Field.

- FIFTH, An I. H. C. gasoline engine delivered the largest average draw bar pull, 8850 pounds.
- SIXTH, No I. H. C. engine entered was obliged to stop for any defective part, breakage, readjustment or miring.

CONCLUSION: These results are taken directly from the judges' figures. They prove, in so far as a contest can prove, that when it comes to real plowing, in a real farmer's field, the I. H. C. engines, whether Titan or Mogul, gasoline or kerosene, have no equal. Neither time, money, nor pains was ever spared in the effort to produce the simplest, strongest, most durable engine that experience could develop. Each contest for the last three years has shown that the single and double cylinder engines are right, last longer, do more work, use less fuel, are managed more easily than the more complicated high speed four-cylinder engines. These engines are built in 12, 15, 20, 25 and 45 H. P. sizes.

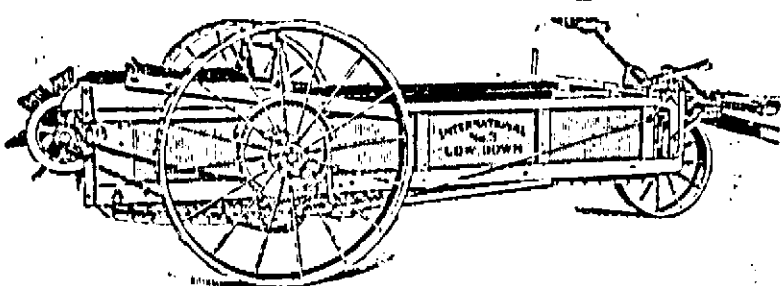

McCormick Huskers and Shredders Double the Value of the Corn Crop.

For those who wish to shred their own fodder, the McCormick 6-roll husker and shredder will be found to meet their requirements. The speed of the shredder head is 1,000 revolutions. The husking rolls are placed parallel with the length of the machine. This machine removes all the dirt and shelled corn from the fodder, thus greatly improving the quality of the stover. Farmers who do not grow corn extensively will find this machine to be a valuable addition to their farm equipment, as it enables them to double the value of their corn crop.

The McCormick 8-roll Husker and Shredder is designed for those farmers who are extensive corn growers and also for those who do custom work. A 20 H. P. engine is required to operate this machine. This large shredder will do excellent work when the fodder is in condition to be shredded. The "Farmer's Friend" blower pipe is furnished with this 8-roll machine. The pipe is made to telescope and can be lengthened or shortened while the shredder is in operation. The pipe is 20 feet long when extended and can be swung in a complete circle.

International Newlow Spreader

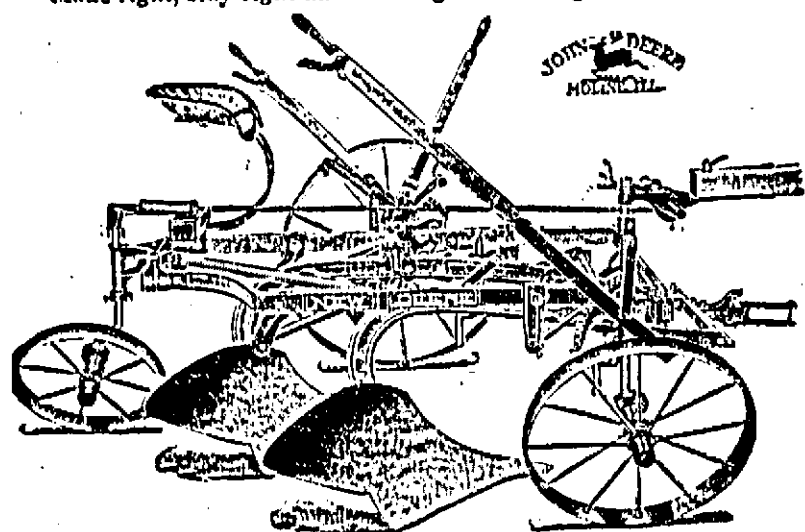

A new Spreader has entered the field. It is very different from other spreaders in that it only has three wheels. This construction is a great advantage because it relieves the horses of nearly all tongue lashing and prevents cramping and twisting of the main frame. The box on the Newlow Spreader is closer to the ground than on any other spreader made. This feature commends it to the practical farmer, because it means a saving in labor—consequently a saving in time.

Every intending purchaser of a manure spreader should look this machine over very carefully before purchasing a machine, for if he appreciates strength, simplicity, compactness and convenience, this spreader will interest him. The Newlow spreader is really a revelation in manure spreader construction.

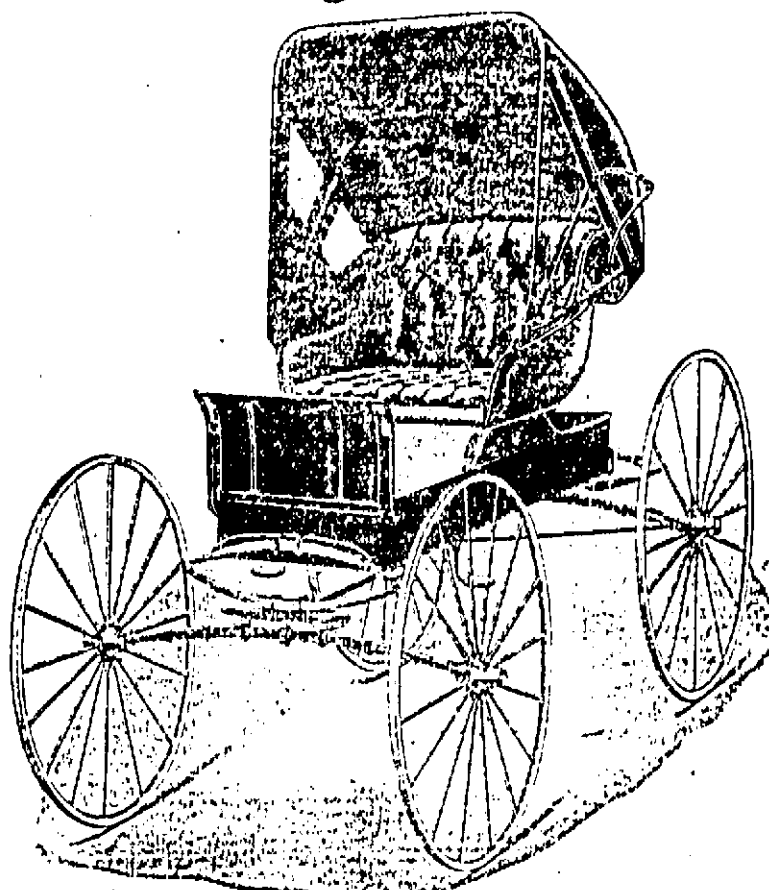

The "New Deere" Plows

today than these plows. The best of steel workmanship and finish. Built in all sizes and for all purposes. Ask for them.

Velle Wrought Iron Vehicles are popular wherever sold and are sold everywhere, owing to the fact that they are stylish, easy riding, well finished and are manufactured in one grade only, from the best materials.

The Velle line embodies more special features and strong points than any other line of vehicles offered to the trade today, among which may be enumerated:

Our special single reach gear—strictly high grade. Not used on cheap work; Our special channel reach construction; Our special dash brace; Our special shaft heel brace; Our special shifting rail; Our special spring wagon body construction; Our special plugless body-plugs cannot show because there are none in the body. Corners cannot open up, for they are covered with special shaped steel corners bolted through the posts. Also a number of other points which we will not mention here. These improvements are all protected by patents. Buy Velle and be happy.

"Ohio" Monarch Self-Feed Blower Silage Cutter

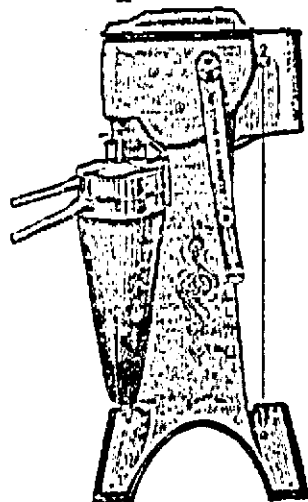

HERE IT IS—THE PRIDE OF THOUSANDS. 5 sizes, with 12, 15, 17, 19 or 22-inch knives, furnished as shown, or mounted on all steel truck as wanted. The "OHIO" never blows up. The fan is enclosed in a twelve-gauge steel case. There is no "give" to "OHIO" steel blades. The "OHIO" is dependable. The "OHIO" is efficient, durable, attractive and is built to stand the burden put upon it during the rush time of silo filling. You must inspect this machine.

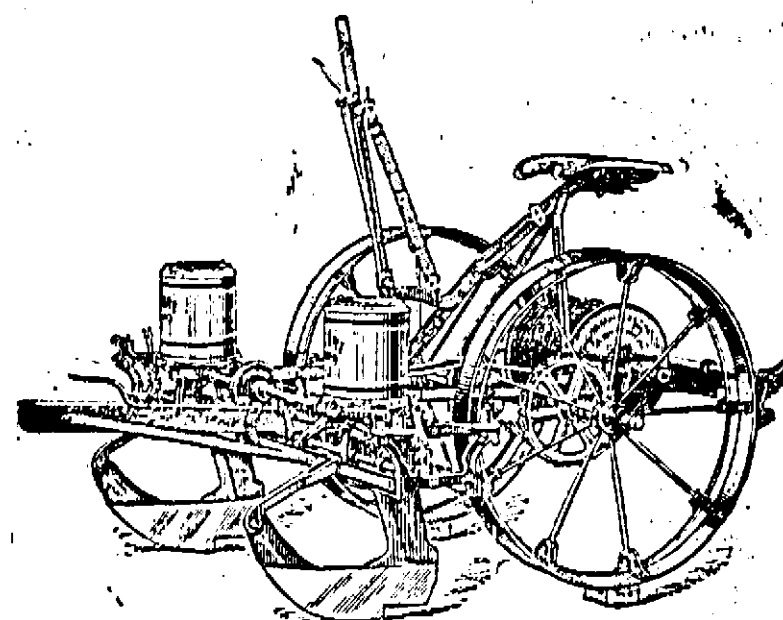

Sharples Tubular Cream Separators

Skim closer under all conditions, than any "bucket bowl" machine, produce a perfectly smooth, frothless cream of any desired density, run at full capacity with two-thirds, or less, of the power required for any "bucket bowl" machine, have the most convenient, safe, durable and desirable arrangement of running parts, and are absolutely safe from accidents caused by exposed gears or by top-heavy bowls, filled with loose parts.

The Tubular uses less oil and requires fewer repairs than any other Separator made. See the Sharples Tubular before you buy.

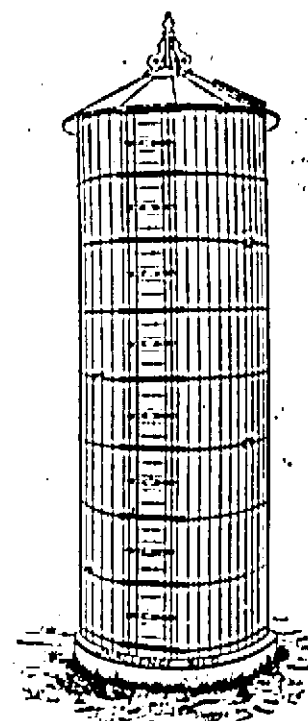

The New Deere Edge Drop Corn Planter

has the edge selection drop hopper bottom, the most accurate dropping mechanism ever produced, insures perfect filling of colls, because it secures agitation and pre-arrangement of kernels. When you buy a Corn Planter this year order a Deere and buy ACCURACY.

Challenge Silos

are the best silos which the market affords, at a reasonable price. We make a feature of the inside hoop, which braces the silo at the top, prevents buckling in hot weather, and which, if used, will prevent the silo from any possible twist or collapse. We furnish these Silos in Yellow Pine, Oregon Fir or Cypress. The Challenge Silo is the one you want if you are going to buy a silo this season.

We also handle the Belle City Silo Fillers, so are able to give you your choice of the two best Silo Fillers on the market today.

We Have Said Nothing About One of the Most Useful Tools On a Farm, the Wagon.

We handle two wagons, the Smith, celebrated all through the central west, for its sterling worth and wear. Built upon honor and guaranteed to be equal if not a little better than any other wagon of its class. We also sell the STEEL KING, which is a new King among Wagons.

The Steel King Wagon has a steel running gear. The axles have internal reinforcements. The stakes are adjustable. Every part is as nearly proof against the weather as it is possible to make it. Come to us; examine one; we have one waiting your inspection. A few minutes' talk will put you right on the wagon question.

We Handle a Full Line of the Deere Disk and Shovel Cultivators, Deere Disk Harrows, Osborne Disk Harrows, La Crosse Harrows

We make it a point to furnish repairs for all machines, and if we do not have them in stock, we will get them for you with as little delay as is possible.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat.
BY RUTH CAMERON

WE WERE talking about the boy scout movement the other day, and three of us had most enthusiastic tales to tell of the improvement it had worked in some of the youngsters of our acquaintance.

Said the fourth member of the group, "Yes, it is a good enough scheme, but—", and, of course, the "but" consisted of a discourse on the weaknesses and evils which she saw in this great organization of America's boyish energy. And, of course, she pointed these things out with an air of pride and conscious virtue. Was she not correcting our foolish and mistaken enthusiasm? Was she not opening our eyes to the real truth?

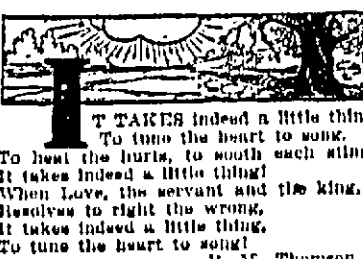

There is a certain class of people in this world who would be called the "but" folks, because, like this woman, they are always seeing "buts." Whenever you appeal to them to admire any person or any thing, they are sure to qualify whatever praise they may be obliged to give by a "but."

It is really remarkable how keen these people are in discovering such defects. They show in this one direction a cleverness and an insight which they do not seem to display in any other relation of their lives. Suppose there is some organization for doing good in which you have taken great comfort because it seemed so refreshingly fine and altruistic. If you chance to speak enthusiastically about it to any member of this class, he will be sure to tell you how some one is getting a graft out of the society's revenues, and some one else is in it just for advertising, and how he heard that two or three people who had appealed to the society could not get any satisfaction at all. Now you may not believe all he says, but, in spite of yourself, your former confidence is shaken. Henceforth you cannot think of this organization without recalling what he said and wondering how much, if any of it, was true.

Suppose you admire some person with an admiration as wholesome as it is wholehearted. You are interested in all this ideal does; you take a vicarious pleasure in his successes, and a vicarious pride in his good deeds; and you are stimulated in your own resolutions to be worth while by his worth-whileness. You happen to mention your admiration to one of these "but" folks, and he, or she—for women belong to this class as largely as men—says, "Yes, he is a brilliant man, but I know some people who know him and they say he has the most horrible table manners that ever were. And the most dreadful taste in clothes. They really hate to be seen on the street with him, he is so eccentric."

It seems as if it really hurts this kind of people to see others enthusiastic. Admiration to them seems a weakness. In reality it is the most wholesome thing in the world. The more hearty admirations a man has the more he is apt to be worth to himself and to others. "The true value of souls," says Pascal, "is in proportion to what they can admire." Surely that is a suggestive thought for those people who think they prove their sagacity and superiority by heartily admiring little or nothing themselves, and by trying to taint other people's admirations with their eternal "buts."

The KITCHEN CABINET

THE USE OF DRIED FRUITS.

Most housekeepers hardly appreciate the value of dried fruits. They are much more wholesome for the children's eating than the sweet preserves and canned fruit that is considered necessary in nearly all homes.

One of the mistakes of the housewife in her lack of appreciation is that she doesn't cook such fruits long enough to develop the flavor, so they think they are tasteless and unpalatable, and give up serving them at all.

The secret of delicious dried fruit is long, slow cooking. The fruitless cooker is an ideal place to cook dried fruits.

Wash the fruit thoroughly in a little warm water, to remove all foreign matter. Put on to cook over night, or boil about five minutes rapidly, and put into the fruitless cooker to remain over night. A dish of well-cooked prunes with a little cream and some bread and butter makes, with an egg, an ideal breakfast for a small child.

When the fruit is taken from the cooker each piece will be swollen to its original size, unbroken and full of the juicy, aromatic flavor of fresh fruit, so much in advance of the flat, withered product of the tin canned variety.

Peas, beans and lentils are all treated in this manner, and are cheaper, besides being fully as satisfactory as the canned.

Taproot and sage are delicious desserts combined with dried stewed fruits.

In cooking, taproot with dried fruits put it to bake, and stir occasionally, adding water if it seems too dry. Serve with cream and sugar. This makes a nice dessert for children who must carry their luncheon to school.

Prunes flavored with a bit of lemon juice and sugar, rolled into balls or rolls are especially liked by the children for luncheon.

Nellie Maxwell.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING

The Indispensable Lemon and a Few of its Seasonable Uses.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

Cooks are so accustomed to the handy lemon that it would be a kitchen hardship to get along without it. The genuine lemon flavor never fails on the taste, but a number of years ago there were several kinds of artificial lemon flavorings made that were so rank and strong that they created a lasting distaste for any kind except that obtained from the yellow fruit.

The need of the lemon is pleasant in itself and is a great aid in bringing out other flavors. When cooked both the orange and strawberry need a little lemon juice to add piquancy and zest.

In dessert making the lemon is invaluable and from sauces and salads it could not be left out while as a summer beverage genuine lemonade is superior to all freezing drinks of high sounding name that could be drawn from a soda fountain.

Lemon sherbet is especially refreshing on the first warm days. Put half cup of sugar into two cups of cold water, add the grated yellow rind of one large lemon and the juice of four medium sized ones. Set on the range until the sugar is melted but do not let it boil, then cool and freeze until like mush.

Lemon honey is convenient for filling little pastry shells or for spreading between sandwiches. Beat one-half cup of powdered sugar with one-half cup of butter until creamy, add one tablespoon of lemon juice. Stir over the fire until it thickens then add the grated yellow rind and the juice of one lemon; let this boil up once and turn out at once to cool.

A well made lemon syrup is preferred by some tastes to any other kind for griddle cakes. Cook one cup of sugar and one-quarter cup of water together for eight minutes, add two level teaspoons of butter and one level teaspoon of lemon juice. When the tablespoon of lemon juice. When the butter is melted the syrup is ready to use.

For a lemon cake filling mix one cup of sugar, one egg, the juice and grated rind of one large lemon, one tablespoon of water and one rounding teaspoon of flour. Cook in a double boiler or in a small sauce pan set in a dish of boiling water and cook until thick; cool and use between cakes.

Lemon sponge is a modified form of lemon jelly. Soak two and a half tablespoons of gelatin in one-half cup of cold water. Add the juice of four lemons to one cup of sugar then beat the yolks of four eggs. Add two cups of cold water and bring to the boiling point. Stir in the soaked gelatin and strain all in a mixing bowl and set in a pan of ice water or where the mixture will cool rapidly. Beat the mixture until it begins to harden, now add the whites of four eggs and beat until the mixture is light and slightly sticky to be firm. Fill molds and allow it to become firm.

Fads and Fashions

New York, April 25.—The long expected has happened and the draped skirt, in the popular style and its various modifications, has arrived. So far the new style finds its expression principally in evening gowns of a more or less elaborate nature and the models show no exaggerated effects in drapery. However, the season has only just begun and there is no doubt that before the season has reached its climax there will be seen models carrying the new style to absurd and ridiculous extremes.

When one gets away from the picturesque evening frocks, one finds fewer extreme draperies, but all the skirts in soft materials show considerable fullness and the tucked up drapery in one form or another is being widely adopted. Whether it will be accepted by either the fastidious women or the crowd remains to be seen, but some of its versions are really delightful. Not every material is suitable for this effect. In fact, this kind of skirt is decidedly best in the upper section, full and straight and limp below, and is rather too extreme to tempt any but the radicals and the adventurous. But in the softer stuffs it is less extreme, and when well made has cachet and charm.

A very handsome frock shown in one of the shops was of very soft sheer creamy lingerie material over an underskirt of black satin—or at least with the skirt of black satin below and tucked up puff of the lingerie overdrift. This puff fell quite flumpily but very full and followed a slightly slanting line downward from front to back. From under the tucked up edge fell a soft plaited full of very fine cream linen. There was a full-trimmed flake on the simple lingerie bodice and narrow plaited flake finished the long slim transparent sleeves. The skirt was of black.

Another charming model with the tucked up drapery and the underskirt of black or dark work embroidery flanking with a little plain material showing above the deep embroidery. The bodice and tucked up overdrift were of soft flowered silk in Louis XVI design of rose and blue and straw color and there was a flat flake of the cut work embroidery covering almost the entire bodice above a grille of old blue.

A method of skirt drapery which merely gives a little movement to the skirt lines without introducing any extreme lines or actual bouffancy consists in placing a group of thin horizontal plaits on one side of a skirt that would otherwise hang in slightly full folds—the fullness of course more pronounced in back and sides than in front.

But not all of the new frocks are draped, indeed, drapery, so far, is the exception and it is only because it sounds a new note that the drapery idea is the thing most clearly defined in one's mind. As a study of the new models, most skirts in soft materials have considerable fullness, but the fullness is very likely to be held in by some transverse trimming or, at least, to be dragged down into straight clinging lines.

Occasionally one finds a skirt with smooth fitting upper section and the lower part in a plaited flounce which falls perfectly straight and soft, flaring out at all toward the bottom. For the woman who considers a broken skirt the unbecoming, there are plenty of models with full length plain front panels, or merely full length button trimmings. The full length line is more often interrupted at the waist by a girle or belt than it was a year ago, and often only the full skirt length has the feature, but even this adds height to a figure.

The belted blouse with straight basque figures among the smart frocks, and though it cuts the height when in material contrasting with the skirt or when trimmed around the skirt by the line of the skirt without any definite line or band of separation, some extremely pretty models on this order are made in various soft materials and are particularly becoming to youthful wearers.

The striped chiffons, radiums, velvets and other sheer stuffs make up most attractively and a good deal is done with plain silk and stripes in combination. The primly flowered Jouy silks too are often made up with plain one-tone silks, as are the Jouy marquisettes and chiffons.

One new lingerie stuffs combined with silk in smart looking models, which of course will not bear tubbing; but that is true of most of the more elaborate lingerie models even when no silk is introduced in them. Black satin or taffeta trims some of the best looking lingerie models, and insert lace, openwork embroidery, etc., are made to show up well by hanging them over a veiling of black chiffon or black net. Then, too, black net is used for inserted bands and trills upon sheer white lingerie materials.

The triple skirt, each section rather scant and clinging, and with some border trimmings, is ubiquitous. Liable little frocks of dotted or other sheer stuffs, such as marquisettes, crepon, radium, etc., with white or cream ground, have each section of their triple skirts scalloped shallowly and narrowly bound or corded on the edges with black. The simplest of bodices is trimmed in some way to harmonize with the skirt and a girle of black with wash ends. The effect is peculiarly piquant and pretty. A clever arrangement of pony radium and black taffeta made one very simple frock shown in one of the shops unusually attractive.

Sheer lingerie or net dyed to the color of the material and the heavy lace is often used for the upper part of the bodice in order to make the frock comfortably cool. Modified jumper arrangements with deep yokes and sleeves of sheer material are frequently used for the heavier summer materials.

The heavy soft lines are made this season in many new weaves, most of which are more or less tough, and the cotton corduroys in white are, like these, lovely.

The new silk-georgette suitings are extremely lovely. They come in black and colors, but are unusually smart in white striped diagonally in black or gray. The shepherd's plaid and diamond-checked designs in black and white are also good.

HEART AND HOME TALKS
BY BARBARA BOYD

Reducing the Work of the Home

A WOMAN who is having a little seashore cottage built for her is planning it, and planning her method of living there, so as to cut out as much housework as possible. Some of her ideas may be helpful to other women, not only for seashore living, but for the ordinary routine of the home.

This woman's house is a little six-roomed bungalow, three bedrooms, a bathroom, a large living room and a kitchen. The living room is to answer both as living room and dining room. In the dining room end of it is to be a built-in corner cupboard, and in the shallow bay-window the window-seats are to be built-in lockers with sliding doors. In this corner cupboard and in these window-seat lockers will be kept the china, canned goods and such articles, for there will be neither sideboard nor pantry in the house. She purposes to use only paper dollies for her tables, and paper napkins. These will be thrown away or burned after each meal, and thus the laundry will be considerably lightened. Asbestos mats for warm dishes will save her table top.

In the living-room end of the room is to be a big fireplace, a large flat-top desk, easy chairs and built-in shelves for books. There is to be just as little furniture as possible, in order to eliminate dusting. But there will be plenty of pottery bowls and clear glass vases for flowers. So that with her easement windows always open for the sea-breeze, the sunlight pouring in, the masses of gay flowers here and there, and when it is cool a fire glowing on the hearth, her room will be always cozy, cheery and restful.

In the bedrooms she is to have couch-hammocks, built-in shelves with sliding doors for bureaus, and an easy chair or two. These big, roomy couch-hammocks with springs are as comfortable as a bed, and much less trouble to take care of.

Her meals she intends to be nourishing and simple, served daintily, but simply. She has thus eliminated a lot of work, a lot of useless furniture, and yet reduced neither real comfort nor health. And she says if her friends do not like her method of living, they can stay away.

It requires some courage to take a stand against our elaborate living of today. But for those to whom it is a tax the stand is worth taking. It is all right for millionaires to live in the complex fashion they do, if they wish to. It is for them simply a question of paying bills, and this is no difficult matter. But for every other woman all the way down the line to follow their lead at the expense of comfort and peace of mind seems scarcely worth while. Some find their satisfaction in it, and then perhaps it is its own reward. But if a woman feels she is throwing to the wind all that is worth while in order to keep up the pace, wouldn't it be better to do as this woman has done and take a stand for simpler living? One need not in such housekeeping discard any of the real requirements of life, but one needs to do some thinking for herself as to what are essentials and what non-essentials.

HAVE YOU THE RIGHT TO BE MARRIED?
BY DOROTHY DALL

Dean Sumner Chicago: "Henceforth no marriage ceremony will be solemnized in this church unless the contracting parties bring a certificate of good health."

Excellent. Yet just how much will the red glow of health be worth if it covers a yellow streak?

When you have decided to marry be sure to include in the mental examination of yourself, that is more important even than a physical one, this question, "Have I a jelly-roll in place of spinal processes for a backbone?" It will give much food for thought.

How many men could look them selves in the face in the glass when they shaved if it depended on their ability to say "No?"

How many women would believe it if told they would meet into a tawny pulp when the time came to show a little courage in their married lives?

Probably "going out with the boys" causes more home trouble than any thing else.

When a man asks a woman to marry him he tacitly invites her to spend her leisure with him. If he goes out with "the boys" who must either stay at home or go out alone, both bring trouble.

So a man has to ask himself if he can stand being told he is "dead" to somebody's apron string. And each woman must ask whether she has the courage to be kind and make home pleasant even when things go wrong plus the strength to stand up and give a reasonable reason when it's necessary.

A brilliant-minded, six-foot journeyman tells how he found a backbone. For years he used much of his spare cord diagonals are most popular for the coat and skirt suit for early spring wear.

Eyelet-embroidered taffeta used in connection with plain taffeta and chiffon of the same colors are materials used in the make-up of some very attractive models. Patching, little cones are fashioned from this material.

Jouy flour de sole is a marvelously soft silk with gaily colored small flecks scattered thickly over the white background, which is checked in a hairline.

Sashes, which are a usual feature upon the present "dressy" frock, are fashioned of gossamer fabrics instead of the heavier silk or satin.

Retains Memory at 125.
In Prussia there lives a woman who has completed her one-hundred-and-twenty-fifth birthday. Census officials have been interested in her case for the last 50 years, first on account of her marvelous memory, and more lately because of her longevity. She is now almost blind, and bent fairly in two with rheumatism. She has been transferred, within the last year, to a Catholic institution where she will be cared for.—Harper's Weekly.

He Knew About Ice-Cream.
The first thin three-year-old Ray noticed a rainbow he shouted: "Oh! That looks just like ice cream in the sky!"

"TIZ Reminds Me of My Barefoot Days!"

"My Feet Never Get Sore, Tired or Chafed Now, Because I Use TIZ."

"TIZ makes me feel like a boy again. Nothing would hurt my feet in those days, even when I'd run around barefooted with flannel, over rocks and pebbles and sticks."

"What You Think About Grandma?"

"To be able now to have feet that never ache, never get tired, blistered, swollen or chafed, or have corns, calluses or bunions, is a glorious recompense for all the colds, coughs and pains one suffers in the winter of life. TIZ makes me feel young, and young feet make you feel young, all over."

"I've tried many things for my tired, tired feet, for those blisters of 20 years, and for those corns that have added wrinkles to my face. I've tried plasters, powders and salves—and nothing has ever given the relief that TIZ has. My feet are now strong and vigorous, they never get tired or swollen, I have no corns, calluses or bunions any more—they are boy's feet on an old man's feet."

TIZ gives instant relief and cures all foot troubles. It operates on a new principle, draws out all the poisonous exudations that cause foot infections. An elderly man especially has a mind of his own; see that you get TIZ.

TIZ is sold in a box, sold everywhere, or sent direct, on receipt of price, by Walter Lather Lodge & Co., Chicago, Ill. Recommended by all Drug Stores, Department and General Stores.

Heart and Home Problems
by MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in love with a young woman six years older than I am. She is thirty and I am twenty-four. Is the difference in our ages any reason why I should not ask her to marry me?

J. L. S.

Very often when a young man falls in love with a girl older than he, it is more of fascination than love, and it is only a matter of a few years before he realizes his mistake, and their marriage proves a tragedy. However, some such marriages result happily and is for you to determine whether or not your love will endure.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty years of age and have gone through the high schools with the idea of going to college, but now as the time approaches, my mother's illness makes me wonder whether or not I ought to leave her, as I am an only daughter, and who will probably never be any better. Can you advise me?

AMPHIBIOUS.

To give up a long cherished hope of going to college is necessarily a disappointment to any girl, but I believe you would never regret having made your home with her, and get just as much out of your years of making her happy as you would, though in a different way, out of your college career.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Can you tell me just what sweet breads are and how to cook them? (2) And can you give me a recipe for oatmeal cookies where rolled oats are used.

MRS. E. M. L.

(1). A sweetbread is the thymus gland of the calf. Its function is unknown and as soon as the calf is taken from liquid food it gradually disappears. Sweetbreads put into cold quickly so should be pulled from the water as soon as received from the market, and should be allowed to stand for about an hour, then cooked in boiling water to keep them firm. After being parboiled thus they can be used in several different ways, as sweetbread patties, cut the sweetbread in cubes after it has been parboiled and cooled in water, then add to a white sauce, and if desired combined with French peas or chicken cut in cubes. (2). For oatmeal cookies use the following ingredients: one cup sugar, three-fourths a cup lard and butter, two eggs, two cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, three cups rolled oats, one-half cup raisins and one teaspoon cinnamon. Roll thin.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—You can't blame Father, he has troubles enough as it is.

Forgotten Tyrant of China.

The abdication—or deposition—of the emperor of China recalls that the rather lengthy list of ex-overlords includes another Oriental ruler who once figured very prominently in the public eye—the notorious Theobaw, who succeeded his father to the throne of Ava in 1873, and immediately began to murder his relatives and generally massacre his kingdom. Protesta failing to affect him, the British government dispatched an expedition under General Prendergast to depose him. Ava was added to the empire and Theobaw was sent into exile in India, where, powerless, but well provided for, he still survives.

The DIAMOND CIPHER

A Baseball Romance

By W. A. PHELON

(Copyright 1912, by W. A. Phelon)

A voice came to them from a nearby bunk—a voice that they had heard before. Both boys started agitatedly as they recognized its thick, oily tone, but they restrained their impatience by gripping each other with firm though shaking hands.
"Ah, done told ya, mah frum!" came the voice, "dat dis heah place am haunted. Haunted by a ghos' without any bald. Doss right. Long time ago, dere was a man done been killed right heah. Dey cut off his bald, took de bald away wiv 'em, an' left de body. Evah shen den dis heah baldless man have done baunted de spot. Now an' den he comes right in heah an' scatches de aninkels silly. Now an' den you'll see him in de yand. Mah frum! He ain't no joke. Onst every so often dat baldless man comes round heah, an' Ah'm almos' suah dat he's pretty nigh due. Shid'n' yo' never see no ghosts oveh in Manilla?"

CHAPTER XX.

"Dis ain't no joke, no lie at all," went on the well-known voice. "Ah was in houn one night las' winter, when dehe come an awful scream outside. Koo Lung, de Chinaman, goes to de loah, an' in falls a nigger woman. Shed' seen it. Shed' seen a man standin' outside in de yand wivout no bald—just his body all complete up to de neck—a big, upstandin' feller in good clothes, he was. She done let out one yell an' fall nigh de doah. Den dehe was a cheise man, a mighty fine young man he was, too, what goes round de country in de summer, graftin' wiv de big-top shows. He was jest a comin' in heah when he seen de same thing, exactly identical. Dat man mighty nigh tumbled bones' den and dehe, so he did."

"Don' yo' spose, Sam," quivered a voice from an adjacent bunk, "as how all dis was a joke? Summun might have been foilin' an' projokin' round jest to scatch folks silly, don' yo' think?"
"No indeedy," answered the voice of big Sam. "Dehe was no joke 'bout dis at all. Yo' jest ax Koo Lung. One time when dat baldless ghos' done frightened de livin' woud outen some people comin' in heah, Koo Lung runs out wiv a lamp an' a snakegown. He seen de same thing—de baldless man—standin' right longside de doohway. Koo Lung frow a fit an' bust de lamp all oveh hisself tryin' to get back inside."

"Madre de Dios," came a new and trembling tone from the same bunk whence the voice of the negro had just issued. "I am ver' sorry I mooked justice here. I care not, no, to see ghoshts. Ay de mi—I haf de good reason!"

The air thickened again with the smoke of opium, and the voices died down to soft, uncertain whispers. Brockett wriggled from the bunk, and Solano was just extricating himself from the narrow limits of the smoking-den, when there came the sound of a sudden struggle only a few feet away. Thumping blows, hoarse cries of surprise and rage, and the cracking of the woodwork under agitated feet and hands made up a startling mixture of noises. Heads protruded from the half dozen bunks around the room; the Chinaman and the mulatto woman, rising from their chairs, came hurrying toward the scene of trouble, and then the curtains of one bunk were violently burst asunder. A writhing, fighting heap fell heavily to the floor, and a huge black man, extricating himself with a great heave of knees and shoulders, rose up gigantic in the smoky room. Round his knees clung a smaller man, striving frantically to drag the giant down. Big Sam, with a beastlike snarl, drove his massive fist upon the head of the clinging enemy, but did not break him from his hold. The smaller man tugged madly; big Sam, caught off balance, fell like a severed tree, and before he could rise something flashed in the blue murk of the room. Big Sam, with a hoarse gurgle, straightened out upon the floor. The little man sprang up, a knife in his blood-spattered hand, and reached quickly into the clothing of his victim. As he fumbled in the negro's pockets, the Chinaman struck him with a billet of wood, and the mulatto woman caught his knife-hand. The three dusky fighters rolled and grappled, upsetting the miserable furniture of the room, while another hideous uproar began outside the threshold, and a scream of "The ghosht!" mingled with insistent beatings on the panels.

Stepping clear as best he could from the struggle on the floor, Solano tore away the bolt. A man and woman, white-faced, shrieking, stumbled into the room—and at their heels came Flynn and Hogan, large, convulsing pistols ready in their hands. Flynn shot his fist against the ear of the Chinaman, while Hogan, in most unchivalric fashion, applied the gun-butt to the head of the mulatto woman. The writhing knot upon the floor resolved itself into its proper factors, and the little man whose knife had been driven into the body of big Sam rose, gaspingly. He drew his hand across his eyes to clear his brain and got his bearings—and then his gaze fell upon the face of young Brockett, not six feet away. Another frightful yell rang out, and, staggering straight at the man he thought he slew two nights before, the Filipino, Agullar, fell shrieking to the ground.

"Seems to be quite a collection of choice ghoshts around here, mah lads," remarked Officer Hogan, while his bunch of miscellaneous trinkets, police alphas and some crumpled currency. "No sign as yet, here, lads," he announced, disappointedly.
"Look in the brown wan's pockets," suggested Flynn, and Brockett, thrusting eager hands into Agullar's apparel, gave a shout of sheer delight as his fingers closed upon the well-remembered leather. Out came the belt and the boys, with shaking hands, opened its compartments.
"Everything present for duty, lads?" questioned Officer Hogan.
"Everything except about $200 of my money," replied the joyous Brockett. "The big fellow probably spent that celebrating. I think I understand now just how a man feels when he has been pardoned on the morning of his hanging."

"I'm damned glad," heartily spoke Officer Hogan, while both policemen wrung the youngsters' hands. "We've all done well this night, an' it we've drinkin' men it's wuv some blowout w'd have for the occasion. What's that, mah boy? Money? Ah, put it back. Put it back. The prizes we have gobbled this night are worth more to us than all the money ya could hand us, an' we were lookin' for no graft on this particular evenin'!"

CHAPTER XXI.

The missing property safe in the hands of its rightful custodians—through sheer good fortune, and through skill or Sherlock Holmes sagacity—and only a limited space of time remaining for the journey to the Rio Grande, it was only natural that the young messengers should wish to hurry on their road. They did not interrogate either the wounded negro or the captive Filipino, much as they would have desired to do so, for neither was in condition to stand an interview. They did manage, however, to get this information, through the good offices of Flynn: that it was not the Filipino from whom the giant African had wrested the belt in the corridor of the hotel. How big Sam had fallen in with Agullar, how the islander probed the secret of the negro's sudden affluence, and how he also learned of the more valuable contents of the belt—these were mysteries reserved for later solution. The boys were glad enough, under present circumstances, to regain their property and be on their way.

They were standing near the sergeant's desk in the police station on the following morning, bidding good-bye to the big officers who had done so much to aid them, when a little bunch of "harnessed bulls" came in, hustling a clump of intoxicated prisoners to the cells below. Two or three of the captives could hardly keep their feet; the group swayed and weaved from side to side like some huge, broken-legged animal, and the boys were almost trampled under the uncertain feet of the drunks and their guardians. As they broke ground to get free from the crowd, Brockett thought a hand sought his pocket, and, warned by the painful memory of recent happenings, snatched quickly at it. He caught nothing. Hurriedly thrusting his hand into his pocket, he brought up a scrap of paper, dingy and thumb-marked, but crimsoned with the sign of a familiar code.

Stepping over to the window he read, scrawled upon the dirty paper, these hieroglyphs:

"L TC A SH FA SH TC FA PO SH SH SH Pos T SH A TC W SH PO SH R BA TO SH Pos E L SH E L SH. N TC TO HRE Fin SH TC E W TC Fin TO SH TO HIR PO PO SH Fin W TO SH SH W HIR E L TO W Fin H TO HIR TC E L."

"Some people have more luck than sense. Continue on route till further instructions," Brockett translated.

The adventures which had their climax in the opium joint gave Brockett and Solano plenty of material for discussion as they rolled out on a southwestern train. This time the messengers made no attempt to disguise their course, but went straight to the station, bought their tickets and climbed aboard. Instead of purchasing the red or yellow slips which license you to roam about in the berths of the Pullman, however, they decided to stay in the seats of the day-coach and get what sleep they could, while alternate three-hour watches were agreed on as the best way of feeding off any possible trouble. "The man who really wants to get you," remarked Solano, sagely, "has a much better chance in a Pullman than in an ordinary day-coach, and you take ten times as many risks for your extra money."

Before beginning the night watches the youngsters traversed the whole train, passing through the sleepers on their way to the dining car, and satisfied themselves that none of their enemies had started on the same journey. No German nobleman, big, bluff, and devoted to his kaiser; no cat-like Japanese, no slinking Filipino, were to be seen from smaller to finer, and, as none of the berths were made up early, there was no possibility of a concealed antagonist crouching behind the green curtains. After supper they returned to their red-plush berths, and spent three hours discussing the happenings at Chicago, or the adventures yet to come.

Solano leaped from some inner pocket a tiny Anglo-Spanish text-book, and urged its importance upon his companion. "You may need to know a few words of the language before very long," he insisted, "and now is as good a time to begin learning as any."

"Why not let me carry the book?" responded Brockett. "Then, if a Mexican starts any conversation, I can simply dip up the book and read him the proper answer."
